

Some comment suggestions when reading with your child at home. We hope that you find them useful.

S/he enjoyed this book so much that s/he's really looking forward to another story about these characters.

S/he pointed to the words as we read them together.

S/he knows all of the words in this book, exceptand

S/he was stuck onand, but has rememberedand ... today.

S/he read all of the book and then told me the story in her/his own words.

S/he's really getting used to reading past a word s/he doesn't know and then coming back to work it out.

S/he was very tired tonight and not concentrating very well so:

...we only didpages

....I read it to her/him

...we read a page each

...we talked about the pictures

...s/he picked out the words s/he knew

S/he is really not enjoying this book and I would appreciate suggestions on how I can deal with this.

S/he read this book silently and only asked for the words..... and

We talked about the pictures and s/he named the main characters.

S/he is becoming more confident when sounding out some words.

S/he seems to be looking carefully at the beginning of the word for clues, but sometimes needs reminding to look at the endings.

She found the word "....." very tricky.

He is very aware of punctuation, including speech marks!

Lovely reading and only a little help needed today! S/he read beautifully with lots of expression.

Grandma was over the moon when she heard read!
